Between:

AND

1. The Govt. of A.P., rep. by principal Secretary,

.....RESPONDENTS

ORDER: (Per Hon'ble Sri Justice Bilal Nazki,)

Alleged detenue is produced by the respondent-Police and is identified by the petitioner, who is her husband. It appears that this is a matrimonial dispute between the petitioner and the alleged detenue.

On last occasion, when this case came up, we had made it clear to the petitioner that in case it is found that the alleged detenue was not in wrongful confinement, then the consequences will follow. In the first instance, we had not issued any notice to the respondent-Police, but later on we directed the respondent-Police to produce her.

We have recorded the statement of the alleged detenue. She stated that she does not want to live with the petitioner, who is her husband, and that she is living with her parents out of her own free will.

In these circumstances, the Writ Petition is disposed of imposing costs of Rs.5,000/- on the petitioner which may be deposited by him within a week to the alleged detenue.
